Icy stretches likely to develop on Thursday morning

What to expect

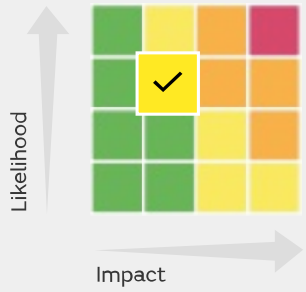
- Some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces
- Probably some icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths
- Some roads and railways may be affected with longer journey times by road, bus and train services

Further details

An area of rain, sleet and snow is expected to move south across much of Wales and parts of western England on Thursday morning.

With temperatures falling ahead the rain, sleet and snow arriving, some icy stretches are likely to form on frozen ground.

Whilst some snow will fall, this will be mainly on higher ground, although perhaps to lower levels for a time in the Welsh Marches and parts of the West Country. Only small amounts are expected with perhaps 1-2 cm of slushy accumulations in places.



Medium likelihood of low impacts
